

Immigrant, Inc. Book Launch Party

Monday, December 7, 2009
6:00 pm to 9:00 pm
Speakeasy (below the Bier Markt)
1948 West 25th
Cleveland, Ohio 44113

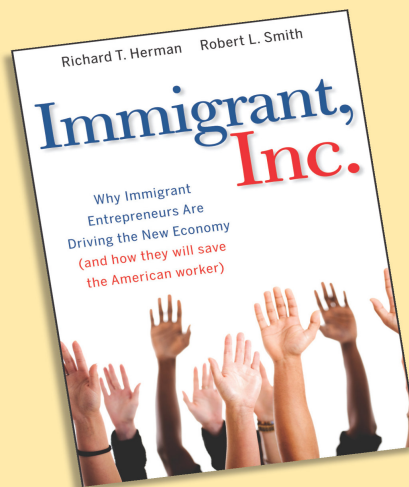

Speakeasy, located across the street from the historic Westside Market, and as featured in the New York Times, is a new prohibition-era themed lounge with classic cocktails and haute-rustic decor.

Appetizers. Cash Bar. COOL CROWD. Join Us! For more info: 216-696-6170.

Immigrant, Inc. • 移民, Inc. • आपवासी, Inc. • Inmigrantes, Inc. • المهاجر, Inc. • Einwanderer, Inc. • 이주자, Inc. • מנהר, Inc. • Иммигрант, Inc. • L'immigrant, Inc. • Mhamijai, Inc

Advance Reviews on Back

think like an immigrant

Available wherever you buy books November 9th.

WILEY
Now you know

For more info on the book:
www.ImmigrantInc.com

Event Co-Sponsors

U.S. Export Assistance,
U.S. Department of Commerce
Cleveland Council on World Affairs
NEO Council on Higher Education
China Invests in America
Erie Chinese Newspaper
Cleveland Councilwoman Dona Brady
Council of Intl Programs USA
Organization of Chinese Americans

Consortium of African American Organizations
Cleveland Jewish News
Brewed Fresh Daily
Al-Sahafa Newspaper
India International Newspaper
Office of Economic Development,
Cuyahoga County
Maria Pujana, Trustee, Cleveland Foundation
Cleveland Hungarian Development Panel

Jumpstart
EthniCITY
El Sole De Cleveland
Russian Magazine
Burgh Diapora
Catholic Refugee Services
MercoHispano
Russian Gazette
Rita Singh, SA-Consulting

This book of inspiring stories, interwoven with powerful research, explores the culture of “Immigrant, Inc.” — a culture of entrepreneurship, education, family and thrift. Richard Herman, an immigration attorney, and Robert Smith, a journalist, each married to an immigrant, call upon America to embrace these job-creators and to “think like an immigrant.” This book will forever change the way you look at immigrants and America.

Early Reviews For “Immigrant, Inc.”

“If you care about Cleveland, Immigrant, Inc., is a must-read, if for nothing more than to learn what an immigrant-friendly city could mean for our future.”

—Lute Harmon, Sr., Publisher, Inside Business, Cleveland Magazine, Ohio Magazine

*“...a well researched, wonderfully written, and a fun, fast read. Like The Millionaire Next Door (by Stanley & Danko) ...wowed readers with stories of extraordinary people doing extraordinary things, and in the process, they are also creating a more diverse, vibrant and colorful America. A page turner—I couldn’t put it down.”*

—Loung Ung, Author of First They Killed My Father: A Daughter of Cambodia Remembers and Lucky Child; Co-Owner of Bier Markt & Speakeasy

“We’ve all heard of the entrepreneurial power of modern-day immigrants to America. But this book goes further. It shows how newcomers to our shores, setting up their own firms, excelling in cutting-edge technologies, employing and working with native Americans, are essential to the United States’ economic well-being, indeed its very future in a fiercely competitive 21st century world.”

—Neal Peirce, Columnist for Washington Post, nationally syndicated writer,

“...a passionate, persuasive case for immigration as a crucial investment in our country's future. This book is a timely call for clear thinking and positive action....”

—Charles Michener, Author and former Senior Editor at The New Yorker and Newsweek

“... with the economic downturn, xenophobia is building and political clouds of nativism are swirling in Washington, DC. This book couldn’t have come at a more timely moment. I hope that all policy makers read this.”

—Vivek Wadhwa, Columnist, BusinessWeek, Fellow, Harvard, entrepreneur

“A rare and insightful look into the culture of immigrant entrepreneurship. Written with love, sensitivity and the promise of what immigrants contribute to our great American society....,”

—Alex Machaskee, former Publisher and CEO, The Plain Dealer

“This is a fascinating chronicle of what can be one of the most powerful economic development forces in our country in the coming years.... ”

—Alan R. Schonberg, Founder, Management Recruiters International

“...Required reading for all policy makers and practitioners working to help America keep its competitive edge in the 21st century.”

—John Austin, Fellow, The Brookings Institution, Great Lakes Economic Initiative